REGIONAL SOCIAL WORK AWARDS 2025

‘Celebrating the unique identity, diversity, vibrancy, care and commitment of social workers’

Information and guidance for those applying to the Regional Social Work Awards 2025

About the Awards

Social Work is a unique profession because it focuses on empowering individuals, families and communities and working alongside them to address social issues and promote positive change. We do this through advocacy and by providing support, practical help, and above all by holding close to our social work values along the way. We are fortunate in Northern Ireland to have a multi-cultural social work workforce that welcomes and celebrates diversity.

Social Work in Northern Ireland is unique due to its context within the region's distinct history which means that social work sits within, and deals with, the out-workings of a post-conflict society. Northern Ireland is like nowhere else in the islands of the UK and Ireland. We are a unique people with distinct history, culture, social challenges and a quirky sense of 'Norn Irish' humour. The social work profession plays a crucial role in contributing to the well-being of all of the people of Northern Ireland within this unique context.

Despite, or perhaps because of the significant challenges faced by the people of Northern Ireland, we are a resilient people with a strong sense of fairness, social justice and identity. The Regional Social Work Awards 2025 aims to encapsulate that sense of unique identity by recognising the diversity, vibrancy, care and commitment of social workers who continue to engage in empathetic and collaborate practices to enhance the well-being of the people of Northern Ireland. These social work awards will take an alternative approach and not only recognise outstanding examples of practice, but also celebrate the tenacity and creativity of individuals and teams who simply keep on giving in their own unique way.

This time around there will be eight awards drawing on the theme of 'Celebrating the unique identity, diversity, vibrancy, care and commitment of social workers'. These will be presented at a ceremony on Wednesday 26th March 2025 in the Manor House Hotel, Enniskillen. We will also be celebrating World Social Work Day 2025.

Who can enter

The Awards are open to social workers and teams working in the statutory, voluntary, independent, education, justice, probation and training sectors in Northern Ireland. Applications are welcome from individuals/teams in all areas of social work; you do not have to be working in a unique project to submit an application. The BASW NI Outstanding Achievement Award is open to social workers in the service or who have retired. Previous applicants are welcome to reapply if their application has a different practice focus. Please read all of the information in this booklet before you complete and submit your entry.

Closing date for applications is midnight on Sunday 20 October 2024.

How to apply

Applications for all awards must be made online through Northern Ireland Social Care Council Citizen Space. Applicants must provide a summary of why their nominee should be considered for the award. They will also be required to provide contact details for the social worker(s) being nominated, including their NISCC registration number and they must provide confirmation that the nominee and their employer have consented to the nomination being submitted. Read on to find out more about the judging criteria for each award and to access the links to the online applications.

A checklist has been included on page 6 to help you prepare all the information that will be needed for your application. We recommend that you complete this checklist before starting to fill in the online application.

When nominating a social worker for an award, please outline what makes this social worker's practice excellent in relation to the specific award category. Please include examples of the contribution this social worker has made to people's lives. Quotes and testimonies from service users, carers and other professionals strengthen a submission.

The judging panels will be chaired by senior representatives responsible for promoting high standards of social work in Northern Ireland. Panel members will include service users, social workers, social work academics and members of BASW NI. In all the awards categories, the judges will be looking for evidence of the individual or team's achievements. The application must demonstrate what is excellent about the social work practice and the positive impact on individuals, groups or communities they work with.

Timeline

- Online applications will be open until midnight on Sunday 20 October 2024
- All applications will be checked to make sure they have all the information needed for the judging panels
- Judging panels will meet during December and January to review all the applications and shortlist the three finalists for each award (excepting the BASW NI award)
- By end of January 2025, all applicants will be notified of the outcome of their submission and shortlisted finalists will receive an invitation to attend the award ceremony.
- Shortlisted finalists will be asked to participate in a short film to promote their work/project during February. This film will be used to promote the awards and will be shown at the award ceremony
- Wednesday 26 March 2025, the awards ceremony will be held to celebrate the unique identity, diversity, vibrancy, care and commitment of social workers practising in Northern Ireland at the Manor House Hotel, Enniskillen.
